

Business Furniture Model Business Offices

MR. BUSINESS MAN, how much time do you spend in your parlor? Half an hour a day, perhaps. How much in your diningroom? Two hours or less.

How long are you in your office? One-half of your life. It is a weary, restless grind, with almost nothing beautiful or artistic or restful to relieve it.

Don't you think more up-to-date furniture would make you a better business man?

Won't it create more respect by people who come to see you?

Won't it help you in clinching a deal?

In fact, isn't appearance everything?

On our basement floor we are showing a very large line of office furniture. Won't you come in and let us show you how nice an office we can furnish you?

What the Retail Merchants of Honolulu Offer This Week

The shopping is over for the season as far as set races go and little in the way of amusement is left for the people of the "Islands of the Pacific." In spite of the extreme warm weather some of the shops have been crowded during the past week and the managers report good business. Fall millinery is having an innings these days and the crowd harkens toward Sachs' in consequence. The races, on Saturday drew men, young and old, to the clothing stores and the sales of white suits have been noticeably large. The races, by the way, from the point of view of the business men, were opportune for they gave as a stopgap between dressing the school children and the regular autumn rush.

SACHS DRY GOODS CO., LTD., corner Beretania and Fort.—This is to be the storm center this week and the handsome millinery shown there will be the magnet. The styles are pretty and freaks are noticeably absent from the aggregation. Some of the new turban shapes are in strong contrast with the broad brims shown.

E. O. HALL & SON, LTD., corner Fort and King street.—If there is any one who finds the temperature of Honolulu at this time at a state when sewing is hard work she should buy a Willcox & Gibbs sewing machine from Hall & Son and turn loose. It is said there is no machine that works as easy as this and that it has all of the good points of wheels running on ball bearings. However that may be it is a machine that has been on the market for more than forty years and has been making good since the first was sold.

HONOLULU WOVEN WIRE BED COMPANY, corner Alakea and King.—And here is comfort. The kind that can be had on no other make of spring mattress. Being a home product, made by citizen labor only, there is no doubt of its quality. Brother Bailey has been making wire beds almost since the method of spooling the product of the roller mill was discovered. He knows the weak and strong spots in a mattress and does not help one section at the expense of another. If you are trimming up, get a woven wire bed that was made right here at home.

THE CLARION, Hotel and Fort street.—Another lot of the celebrated Benjamin clothing is here and the best patterns are in the cabinets on the second floor of this establishment. The lines of haberdashery cover all the latest styles, some of the neckwear being particularly nice.

FITZPATRICK BROS., Fort and Hotel street.—Here is where the smokers congregate at all times, but more so now than ever because of the tremendous inducements offered owing to the forced removal from that section of town. The firm has reduced every article in the store from twenty-five to fifty per cent under the regular selling price. There is no lowering of quality for the goods are the same as have been carried here for some time, the present stock being only a few months old. Smokers who enjoy a pipe can buy one very cheap at this place during this sale.

BENSON, SMITH & CO., LTD., corner of Fort and Hotel streets.—If the Honolulu public understood the advantages of Thoro, the powdered soap, the stock at this store would be less than it is. Cleanliness is a necessity to health, for much depends upon the condition of the skin. This powdered soap is a mixture of pure castile soap and cornmeal, a combination that is not excelled for getting into the pores and cleaning them of secretions. Five-pound tins of it are selling here for seventy-five cents, and the holders, which fasten to the wall or the shelf in the bathroom, are sold at the same price.

McINERNEY SHOE STORE, Fort above King street.—Shoes that are comfortable, stylish and have an individuality are sought by ladies who are particular as to their foot-covering. These qualities are so often found in McInerney shoes that one may say they are characteristic of them. The various lines in the store are confirmations of the excellent buying for which the McInerneys are noted.

UNION PACIFIC EXPRESS CO., King street, next to the Young.—"Moving day" should be around soon, and it is well to be prepared. This company handles furniture carefully, and will move all kinds of it so that it will not appear as though it had passed through a fire.

METROPOLITAN MEAT MARKET, telephone 1814.—Australian butter is the real thing. The quality of the last shipment received by the Metropolitan is a rare good one. Spread on hot cakes or waffles, this butter adds much to the enjoyment of a breakfast. The Australians pack it in squares and sell it to the market so it may be retailed here at forty-five cents the block.

JAMES F. MORGAN, Real Estate agent below Merchant.—Mr. Morgan is advertising the auction sale of valuable property on Nuuanu avenue above the terminus of the street car line. Possibly there is better property in Honolulu, but it is not far off. This tract commands a fine view of the harbor and mountains, and the air is pure. As soon as the final arrangements for widening Nuuanu avenue are made the Rapid Transit company will extend its line to the Country Club, passing this property.

HALEIWA HOTEL, line of the Oahu railway.—There are times when a change in surroundings is conducive to good health and restful nerves. No place on this island offers greater attractions for persons who are run down than Haleiwa, a most beautiful spot, sixty miles from the city by train and about half as far by automobile. The rooms are well ventilated, large and protected from the ravages of mosquitoes. The rates there are low enough to suit anyone.

M. McINERNEY, LTD., Fort and Merchant street.—The excessive heat of the past few days certainly warrants this firm calling attention to its stock of the celebrated Diemel linen mesh underwear. This is woven scientifically and the effect is to absorb the perspiration and leave the body free from an pleasant clammy sensation. The suits are a little expensive at first but the wearing qualities redress this perceptibly in the long run.

TRENT TRUST COMPANY, LTD., 201 Fort street above Merchant.—There is generally an opportunity to rent or buy real estate from the Trent company and it is usually desirable property. The advertisement in this issue will lead the way, possibly, to good results. The company will carry intending purchasers to sites by auto.

H. F. WICHMAN & CO., LTD.—The leading jewelers' and the lead is based on the excellent showing of high-class jewelry in the store. The showing compares with that in the large stores on the mainland and the quality is every whit as good. Prices at Wichman's are not above the value of the articles sold and are often below. The assortment of diamonds is large. Besides there is a department presided over by men who are capable of handling the most complicated and delicate machinery of timepieces.

CITY TRANSFER COMPANY, King near Fort street.—The company that has found it necessary to employ a motor wagon to move baggage promptly and keep ahead of the procession. There has been no delay since the Grabowsky was put into commission and every one employing this company to move trunks from steamer to house or hotel has found the luggage there on time to dress for dinner.

SILVA'S TOGGERY, LTD., King near Fort street.—"The home of Hart, Schaffner & Marx clothing." And it may be said, the home is as good as the clothing and the clothing as good as the home. There is every style of suit made and from light weight to heavy materials. In haberdashery there is also a large assortment of best goods. This is a place where many persons find it profitable to buy.

J. A. R. VIEIRA & CO., Hotel near Fort street.—Still the line of stick pins advertised and still the crowd going in to buy. This store has many beautiful watches for men and women. The best makes are to be had in Vieira's place and the prices are not too high.

HONOLULU POWER WAGON COMPANY, 875 South street, near King.—This company maintains a sight-seeing auto service leaving the promotion committee rooms, in the Alexander Young building on a schedule that will be seen on page 8 of this paper. The fare for the various trips is low and the company is having excellent patronage in consequence.

SENATOR MOORE IS EAGER FOR THE FRAY

Senator H. T. Moore is back from the Coast, eager to enter the fray and do his share in putting Link McAdams where his soul panteth for him to be—in the congressional halls. The returned senator is champing at the bit and eager to get at 'em. He is particularly sarcastic at The Advertiser for having advocated prohibition and then coincided with the view taken by the license commissioners that a limited number of Sunday licenses should be allowed.

What right have three or four men appointed by one man to pick and choose in the matter of granting Sunday privileges? he demanded. The senator, as the father of the famous Moore bill, is still not inclined to accept the result of the plebiscite as final. "Nowhere in the United States is a man deprived of his right to let the courts as the final arbiter of all questions," he says, referring to the clause in his bill which gave the right of an appeal from a license board ruling.

Another thing the senator is insistent on is a legislative investigation into the accounts of the agents of the immigration board.
